

The Sunny Town

Once in a sunny town named Sun Shine there was a neighborhood filled with flowers, trees, birds, butterflies and bushes with all kinds of tropical berries.

In this neighborhood there was a white flat top house. Inside lived a great family named Marshion who had two triplets, two babies and six teenagers, total fourteen kids. The whole family went to water park at least once a week. After they finished taking a shower at the water park, they went to Hello Pizza. Every Friday the kids liked to watch their favorite called Quack Quack. It's about a duck named Quack Quack who was very clumsy and funny.

But Mrs. Moran, their next door neighbor, was very grouchy and had only one teenager. Mrs. Moran could easily lose her temper. Her daughter had band practice every Thursday. Mrs. Moran always lost her temper when her daughter played the music with her band. She loved to see Pear jugglers who drop their Pears falling on their heads. Then she shouted out "knock your brains out!"

There was always on every Sunday a clown coming to this neighborhood. He went to Marshion's house and played magic tricks with all the fourteen kids for about half an hour, then left to the next door in the neighborhood. Some kids liked to chase the clown so they could get a little exercise mixed with fun together. Every Saturday night there was a community concert with Mrs. Moran's daughter band called Silver Banner, which attracted a lot of people. Sometimes, the concert turned into a big karaoke. Almost the whole community came to sing and dance throughout the night.

The people in Sun Shine had so much fun and lived happily forever...

Author: Christy Qian

Age: 7 years old

Date: 3/7/2008