

Finally Out
By Elizabeth Ding
Age 7

Lilly the Horse, Cutie the Kitten and Fluffy the Dog were talking about how to get out of their cage. The shelter was called Petco. The boss didn't like the animals at all. The staff also didn't feed them properly. So the next day, they made a solution. When the staff was sleeping, Lilly would go to open the shelter lock, and then Fluffy would go to push the door open. Cutie was feeling a little bossy and told everyone what to do. So that night when everyone at the shelter was sleeping soundly, Fluffy bit the cages one by one, they ran as fast as they could, because they could not waste time. Lilly bit the lock, Fluffy pushed the door open and out they went!!! They worked together to build their own house and lived happily after.